PREFATORY NOTE.

THE following pages have been transcribed from several manuscript volumes, preserved in the Bodleian Library and in the British Museum, which contain notes on most of the Oxfordshire parishes. The earlier collections are the work of Anthony à Wood (1632-1695), the well-known antiquary and historian of the University, who also made preparations for a history of the county. Richard Rawlinson (1690-1755), the Non-juring bishop, was also deeply interested in topography and archæological pursuits, and in collaboration with other workers he arranged much material in continuation of Wood's collections. On his death his MSS. relating to these subjects, besides a large number of other works, were bequeathed by him to the Oxford Library, where they are still preserved. In the present issue the notes have been arranged under the parishes in alphabetical order, and when complete they will probably extend to three volumes. At the end it is hoped to add some appendices dealing with the MSS. and their contents.

ADDERBURY.

[Rawl. B. 400 f. fo. 58.]

Richard Duckworth S.T.B. fellow B.N.C. and rector for 26 years, died 19 July 1706.

Jane Walmesley of Brindle co. Lancaster, widow, died 20 Oct. 1702 aged 60.

In the church yard at the east end is a large stone coffin bearing the figure of a cross with a Pickax and square which seem to intimate it to have belonged to the architect of this church, though the cross seems more particularly to the stone coffins of the Preists alone.

In several places of the chancell are these armes: Arg. a bend ingr. sab., on a mullet in sinister canton sab. a martlet or, which belonged to Dr Sam. Radcliff sometime rector of this church.

In a chappell on the north side of the chancell a raised tomb of a foot and half from the ground whereon is the proportion of a man in alabaster, laying on his back, reported by the inhabitants to be one of the family of the Denhams sometime Lord of this town, there lyes also a woman, his wife I suppose, by his side.

In the same chappell is another tomb like the former bearing the proportion of a clergyman lying on his back, of which all tradition or remembrance is lost.

In the north isle joyning to the body is on a brass fixed to a flatt stone this inscription :—

Pray for the soulles of John Foxe and Joane his wife / the whych John deceased XXI day of June in the yeare / of our Lord MDXXII on whose soules Jesu have mercy.

In a high window over the north isle is Arg., a cross gules (St. George).

In a window of the north isle is Or, on a bend sab., 3 mullets arg.

On a black marble tablet against the east wall of the south ile are these armes : Sab., 3 buckles arg. and a crescent of the second for a difference, with inscription for :—

Edmund Marten died 6 June 1682 aged 79 years ; and Eliz: his wife died 5 Nov: 1697 aged 76 years, John their eldest son died 9 Feb. 1706 aged 55 years. Monument erected by his brother-in-law, Jacob Watson.

On a velom in a frame and covered by a glass at the west end of the church is an account of the benefactions of Mr. John Carpenter, rector, and of Dr Samuel Radcliffe rector, and Principal of B. N. Coll. Oxford.

Here is a free schole built by Dr Sam. Radcliff sometime principal of Brasen nose College in Oxford, who endowed it with twenty pounds per annum for a master to be elected from Brasen nose college, this is now fallen to seventeen pounds, ten shillings per annum. A little after the Restauration Brazen nose Coll. built an Hospitall here for two women, who were to have each twenty shillings quarterly from that College. It bears the name of Radcliffs Hospitall, but he deceiving the College, they themselves at last were forced to build.

BAMPTON.

[Rawl. B. 400 b. fo. 5.]

In 1714 under a stack of chimneys at Aston, a Hamlet in this parish, was found an antient seal with this inscription, now in the possession of Richard Coxeter Esq. of Bampton, black letters: Sigillum commune domus S. Bartholomei de Calceto.

Bampton is situate within a mile of the River Isis, antiently called Bemton . . . Hamlets are: 1 Shifford, 2 part of Bright-hampton, 3 Chimney, 4 Coat, 5 Aston, 6 Weald, 7 Haddon, 8 Lew. Lords of the mannor and Hundred of Bampton are the earl of Shrewsbury, George Talbot (his elder brother being a deput abroad) and William Coventry Esq. Patrons the dean and chapter of Exeter; this church is a vicarage consisting of three portions, of which each vicar alternately takes the tithes once in three year, valued at about 200 pounds each. Present vicars are: 1 Mr: John Edmunds M.A. of St. Johns Coll. Cambridge, 2 Mr: Thomas Snell M.A. fellow of Exeter College, and Mr. William Stevens M.A. fellow of Exeter College Oxford; the dean and chapter of Exeter have a mannour here and at Chimney, leased at about 600 pounds per annum by Mr. Vesey, and 300 pounds per annum more by Mr. Crofts. Lord of the mannour of Shifford is Thos. Slatter alias Bacon, it was purchased of Sonibanke Vesey. Lord of the mannour of Aston and Coat, Alan Horde Esq. Weald belongs to Shrewsbury and Coventry. Haddon belongs to Sr. Robert Throckmorton. Lew belongs to Shrewsbury and Coventry. The church is dedicated to S. Peter, the Parsonage or glebe land without any tithes is lett by the dean and chapter of Exeter to Mr. John Dew at 8 score pounds p. an. renewable every 7 year in a lease of 21 years. The dean and chapter of Exeter have the tithes of several farms, now lett out to the Reverd. Mr. Wine of Kingston, in value about 150 lib. p. an. of which 20 p. an. is let to Mr. Nabbs. Fair on the 15 of August, and on the next Sunday whither before or after the said 15th, the vicar of Einsham preaches a sermon, and is paid 13s. 4d. by the Vicar of Bampton who has the tithes of Aston that year; this I believe was due to the abbot of Einsham formerly. Gentlemen in this parish are Rich. Coxeter Esq. of Weald, Mr. Dew, Mr. John Frederick, Mr. Horde, Mr. Smith late of Lew deceased, Mr. Robert Vesey of Chimney. Here is a free school founded by Mr. Vesey for all the boys of the town paying 2s. 6d. entrance and 6 pence per quarter, endowed by Mr. Vesey with 300 pound which laid out in land in Bampton produces twelve pounds p. an. Schoolmaster, Leonard Fell a poor child of Queens College in Oxford, who according to the statutes ought not to be a beneficed person. Trustees are the vicars for the time being, and the heir of the Founder. Here is a spire on a Tower, in which are six Bells.

On the north wall of the Church is a large wooden tablet, and on it are . . . Benefactors mentioned.

In a Chapell on the north side of the Chancell on a stone lying on the ground under the figure of a woman in a veil in capitals: Here lyeth the body Fraunces Hord late wife / of Sr. Thomas Hord of Cote in this parish Knight, and daughter to Sr. Thomas Gardner of Peckham / in the County of Surrey Kt. and Frances his / wife; being of the age of 36 yeares, died in 2^d day / of July An. Dom. 1633 / what is said of the righteous may trulie be / engraved on this her tombe / dispersit, dedit pauperibus, she hath dispersed / abroad she hath given to the poore / her righteousness remaineth for ever Ps: 112 vers 9.

Against the east wall on a monument in a north Chappel in capitals:—

To the vertuous memory / of Barbara / third daughter of Charles Trinder Gent. / and Jane his wife / shee was first married to Will. Rainton Esq. / (by whom she had one daughter, / Jane the wife of Reginald Bray / of Barrington in the countie of Glouc. Esq.) / and afterwards to Thomas the eldest son / of Sr. Thomas Hord / of Coat in the county of Oxon. Kt. / by whome she had five sons and 7 daughters, / of which survived at her death / four sons and six daughters / she deceased Aug. the 12 in the yeare of our Lord 1671 / and of her age 44 / This monument was erected by her disconsolate Husband / Tho. Hord Esq^r who died (blank).

Other monumental inscriptions:—

Susanna Horde daughter of Erasmus Delafontaine, Kt. and his wife Lady Mary, daughter of Edw. Noel, Viscount Campden, second wife of Thos. Horde; she died 12 Aug. 1680 aged 37.

Charles Horde, died 29 July 1695 in his 37th year.

Thomas Cooke SS.T.B. fellow B.N.C. archdeacon of Salop and vicar of Bampton, died 6 Ap. 1669 aged 73.

Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Harris principal of B.N.C. wife of Dr. Wiat rector of Ducklington, mother of Priscilla Cooke widow of the archdeacon. She died 16 May 1668 aged 82.

Stephen Philips S.T.P. vicar of Bampton, archdeacon of Salop and canon of Hereford, married Mary, daughter of Thos. Cooke. He died 20 Aug. 1684, aged 46.

Three tender infants of John and Ann Gower; Anne, buried 28 Mar. 1676, William, buried 14 Feb. 1679, Mary, buried 2 May, 1679.

Anne wife of Rob. Wiat, died 2 May 1671.

On a brass plate fixed to a marble under the bust of a Preist in the chancell: Hic jacet Mag. Thomas Plymmswood quondam / vicarius de Bampton cujus anime propitiatur Deus, Amen.

On another plate under the figure of a Preist: Orate pro anima venerabilis et scientifici viri Magistri Roberti Holcot sacerdotis ac artium / magistri necnon hujus insignis ecclesie vicarii vitam dum agitaret in humanis, qui in domino / obdormivit mense Octobris luce vicesima v^a an. MCCCC; huic propitiatur ille cui omnium rerum prima potestas.

Note that there was one Robert Holcote a learned Dominican of Northampton who died 1344, but this Robert I suppose to be of the family of his name living at Buckland in Berkshire near this place.

Round the verge of a marble lying on the ground now lost: Hic jacet magr. Thomas Kavi Artium Magr. quondam hujus ecclie . . . qui obiit XXIII die mensis Septembr. an. dom. millesimo CCCC . . . cujus anime &c.

At the east end of an Ile on the south side of the church is on an arched stone monument, a man lying in a gowne, and over him this in cap. :—

Heavene hath my soule in happiest joy and bliss, Earthe hath my earthe, wheare body tombed is,
 Poore have my store for ever to their use,
 Freinds have my name to keep without abuse,
 Heavne, earth, poore, Freinds of me have all their part
 And this in lief was cheifest joy of harte.
 Remember then whom heir ye se } non hodie
 And as I am soe thincke to be. } quod heri.
 George Tompson qui obiit 28 Novemb. 1603.

On a stone on the ground in the body of the church: Barry, an Orle of Martlets, on an Escoccheon a maunche, impaling 2 coates per pale, viz.: (1) a fess fretty between 3 martletts. (2) a Bucks or Staggs head, having between the hornes a cross crosslett fitch, and in its mouth a barbed arrow (Boulstrode). This stone with the said three coats thereon were laid and putt for John Hastings Esq^r who died the XIII of Januar. an. MDXLI. Upon the said monument also are these armes: (1) A fess fretty between 3 martlets, as above, impaling Bulstrode, as above. (2) Boulstrode alone.

In the windows of the church:—

(1) Chaworth. (2) Exeter College Armes.

(3) De la More, quartering, (4) Field . . . a chevron or between 3 Castles arg., each having issuing thence a demi lion rampant of the 2nd. Galfridus de Caio obiit MCCCCLVI.

(5) Arg., a chevron gu. between 3 birds (choughs) sab. legg'd, and beaked or. (Rad. Freteville).

(6) Gules, 3 lions passant or. (England).

(7) England with a file of 5 labells each charged with 3 fleurs de lize.

(8) Gules, a cross pattee or (or arg.).

(9) Gules, 3 chevronells or.

Lord Dawbeneys Armes.

These three coats were visible on an old tombstone, with a man thereon in armour cutt in stone, and seeming very ancient. In that vicarage House which belonged to Mr. Tho. Cooke (since to Mr. Philips who married his daughter and heir) I find somewhere this written an. 1456 Johannes Dotyn vicarius. Carved on the screen in Mr. Cooks Hall, 1577 Hen. Dotyn vicarius. He was M.A. sometime fellow of Exeter College, and perhaps nephew to the former; ascending into a chamber was cutt in stone in 1664 this as well as the before mentioned, Hen. Dotyn vicarius 1577.

On a garden wall in caps:—

1569 Vicari. Henricus Dotyn successor Jo. Dotyn Patruī sui hunc murum suis UPTV¹ perfecit.

Wm. Hodges archdeacon of Worcester one of the vicars of Bampton in Oxfordshire, and vicar of Ripple in Worcestershire who died An. 1676.

At the west end of Bampton Church, hardly the distance of a stones cast, are the ruins of a castle, that has been moated round (reported these to have been built by K. John) and built Quadrangular. It had a round tower at each corner, which had an ascent of stone steps: and for speedier conveyances up to the said wall, there were besides those four towers a large and high gate house (tower like) on the west and east

On a gravestone on the ground this:—

To the memory of Mr. Richard Hill merchant who dyed the 21 day of October 1658.

From rockes secur'd, from stormes and waves set free,

God brought me backe my native soyle to see,

Casting up my accounts though blest with gaine,

I found the earth's advantage all but vaine,

At last wean'd from below I took advice

From heaven and sought that pearle of greatest price,

Reader do thou the like, learne to be wise,

To trade for Christ is the best merchandize.

By the side of the south wall an ancient raised monument sans inscription or armes.

In the body of the church on a gravestone this: To the memory of Mrs. Mary Walrond who dyed ye 26 April 1658 in the 12 year of her age.

Her thread was short but finely spun,

The morning past, her day work's done,

A quick dispatch no more to dye,

Early was grave & glory nigh;

Thus hopeful sprouts of earthly rise

Transplanted are to Paradise.

In a chappell on the north side of the church against the east wall, a table of blacke marble thereon this: Here lye the bodyes of John Knight three times / Bayliffe of this Burrough, & Ioane his wife by / whome he had three sons & 10 daughters, whereof / 9 were married: They saw springing from their / own loynes 84 children, which like olive branches / were an ornament to their table. In their life / time they cherished the poore & having bequeathed / certain lands for their perpetuall releife, dyed / full of dayes, desired loved & bewailed of / their children freinds & neighbours.

{ He } dyed { 22 Nov. 1587 }
{ She } { 26 Decemb. 1590 }

On a little piece of marble underneath, this :—

Graves are lodgings to the blest,
Not of horror but of rest,
Cabinets that safely keep
Mortalls reliks while they sleep;
When the trump shall all awake,
Every soule his flesh shall take,
And from that which putrifies
Shall immortall bodyes rise;
In this faith these liv'd & dyde,
In this hope they here reside.

On the same wall the proportion of an old man to the middle between 2 pillars of blacke marble, with a booke in one hand & a handkercheife in ye other. Under him on a table of blacke marble this: To the pious memory of Will. Knight Gent. sometime justice of peace & Quorum in this Burrough, who having had his education both in the University and Innes of Court, continued in the love & practice of good studyes, gave good examples of morality and piety, finished his coarse in the true faith, & was here laid up in the hopes of a glorious resurrection 20 Sep. 1631.

His life, his breath, his faculties are gone,
Yet vertue keeps him from oblivion,
Those artes & parts that magnified his mind,
Like pretious oyntment leaves his name behind,
His lamp is out yet still his light doth shine,
His faith & workes survive as things divine,
To god he lives though dead to us he bee,
The buried seeds do spring and so shall hee.

Luge

Clauditur hoc tumulo qui coelum pectore clausit,

In coelo cujus mens pia clausa manet,

Prodiga lingua benigna manus dispersit abunde,

Divitias coeli divitias que soli,

Dans meditans orans exortans fata peregit,

Eheu ! quam multis flebilis ille cadit.

What so 'ere thoult say who passest by,

Why here's inshrined celestiall dust,

His bones whose fame & name cant dye,

These stones as feoffees weepe in trust,

Its William Whately that here lyes,

Who swamme to 's tombe in 's peoples eyes,

Death was his crowne but our crosse,

If not a great man yet ile say,

A good man sure the greater losse

Is fallen in Israell this day,

Both learnd in Arts & hearts, O can

Whole ages give us such a man ;
 Nor prayers nor teares, nor means nor men
 Nor his owne grace & partes so knowne
 Could save from death, though many then
 For his life would have pawnd their owne.
 Read this O man & rightly know
 That one day thou must ly as low.

The body of Martha Whately, wife of William Whately
 min. lyeth under the adjoyning tombe, who was buryed the 10 of December 1641.

Scarce had the streames of the sad teares
 Causd by this tombe surceast their course,
 But loe another straight appeares
 Which doth renew their former force.

On a stone erect this: To the memory of Mr. William Whately, late Alderman & once major of this Burrough who dyed 24 Jan. 1647. On the other side these verses:—

He was like Enoch in his walke,
 In zeale like Phineas more than talke,
 Job-like a perfect upright man,
 In mercy the Samaritan.

A foe to error & false wayes
 A strict observer of Gods dayes
 Cast up the account & when you have done
 Say we have lost many in one.

On another this: To the memory of Thomas Whately who departed this life 25 July 1654. Anno aetatis 21.

¹ This must be wrong ; it is not an anagram and is not sense.

On the other side these verses :—

My web though spun, my thread though cut it be,
 Reader will lead to true felicity,
 Take thou the end, loe here it lyeth, I dye
 To warne thee of thine owne mortality,
 Farewell toyes whereon my fond mind fed,
 My joy's in heaven my grave's the nuptiall bed.
 Loe here I ly
 Untill the dawning of eternity.

On the side of a rais'd monument this : Here was laid the body of Timothy Harris one of the sons of Doctor Robt. Harris who dyed 11 June 1659, by it the armes with this inscription :—

He that exchanged sin & paine
 For rest with Christ thus death his gaine,
 Sound in the faith he liv'd & dyde,
 Weere blest who do not turn aside.

On a stone erect this : To the memory of Edward Beale once major of this Burrough who departed this life 3 day of Oct. 1657.

How great is our losse but greater is his gaine,
 Hee lyeth in heaven we on earth remaine,
 His righteousnesse he did wholly disowne,
 (Those were his dying words) & Christ alone.
 Reader make haste see thou his steps do trace
 If ever thou think to see Jehovah's face,
 Who sings Hosanna's in the highest blisse,
 We live in hope while he the spouse doth kisse.

On another this : Here lyeth the body of Mrs. Anne Slade wife of Mr. Will. Slade daughter of Mr. Nathaniel Whitley who dyed 17 of Apri. & Mary their daughter 10 day of the same month in the year of our Ld. Christ 1658.

Here with the daughter resteth the tender mother
 Together laid, yet knowne not of each other
 Sleep best saints secure till the last trump do blow
 Then wakeing rising know as ye are knowne.

At the west end of the churchyard on a head stone: To the memory of Richard Richards / who by a gangreen lost first a Toe / secondly his leg, and lastly his / life, the 7th. day of Aprill 1656.

Ah cruell death to make three meals of one
To fast and eat, and eat till all was gone,
But know thou tyrant when the trump shall call
He'll find his feet, and stand when thou shalt fall.

At the east end of the church yard are five houses which contain eleven families; on a black marble tablet in gold capitals: This Almes House / was built by the / Right Honourable / Francis Lord / Guildford anno dni. / 1711.

In the middle of this chancell is a raised monument of black marble, but the armes on brass plates with the inscriptions having been long since torn off by rebellion and sacrilege, I deem it not impertinent to transcribe these two following epitaphs which I find in some collections before the wars, and are probably what was upon the brasses: Hic jacet Willus. Coope armiger quondam / Cofferarius hospitii famosissimi et excellentissimi / Regis Henrici septimi qui quidam Willus. obiit / vii die mensis Aprilis an. dom. MV^cXIII cujus, etc. On another of the plates: Here lyeth Jane Coope wyddow late the / wyfe of Will. Coope Esq. sometymes cofferar / to K. Hen. VII whych Jane died on the XII day of Febr. an. dom. MV^cXXV on whose, etc. Armes are: Arg., on a fess azure betw. 3 roses gules slipt and leaved vert, as many fleurs de lise or.

In the windows over this tomb were the last mentioned armes depicted, with this inscription underneath them: Willus. Coope arm. quondam cofferarius / Hospitii illustris Regis Hen. VII istas quatuor / fenestras fieri fecit Agnes et Jana uxores. I am of opinion that the isle was appropriated for the burial place of the Copes of Hanwell to whom, it is reported, this mannour belonged. N.B. Hanwell is tax'd at this Day with Banbury.

He was a preacher, who for all his paines
 Treasured not any but celestiall gaines, dyed onlie rich in vertue, as in yeares,
 Those were his wishes, which were others feares
 To live retiredly not to be knowne
 Save in the pulpitt and among his owne,
 He was a man of peace, onlie some strife
 There was betwixt his doctrine and his life,
 Which should be more instructive, for indeed
 His actions were all sermons; could you read
 Those workes you sure would thinke as well as I,
 All this and more due to his memorie.

Upon the Chancell wall at the East end is another Table thus: Elizabethae Browne hic ossa requiescunt 31 Julii / migravit 1631 / Religio socius vitae fuit. / Pietas mortis comes / Flebile amici obsequium.

Lord of the Mannour and Patron Col: Twisleton formerly in the family of Say and Sealls, Rector, the Rev: Mr: Cross, an old House partly erected in 1554 and partly of much older date, moated round, the holes of the cannon Balls still remaining in the gates.

[Rawl. B. 400 b. fo. 143.]

This mannour anciently belonged to the Broughtons from whence I suppose they took their surname, for I find that in the 22nd year of Ed. I (or thereabouts) John de Broughton obtained a charter of free warren to himself and his heirs in all his demesne lands here, as also at Weston juxta Clinton Com. Warwic. which Lordship was entailed upon him and Catherine his wife by John de Weston 27 Ed. I whether for consanguinity's sake, or any other thing I cannot well find out. It is now the habitation of the Fiennes. K. James in the 1st year of his reign recognized and continued the name, stile, title, degree, dignity, and honour of the Baron Say and Sele, and Lord High treasurer of England, who was barbarously beheaded by a rabble of Rebels in the time of King Henry the sixth.

BURFORD.

[Rawl. B. 400 f. fo. 219.]

One Pearson at Kencott cutt his own throat and was cured by Mr. William Taylor of Burford and twenty years after drowned himself in a stream at the mill tail of Filkins in a stream not a foot deep.

In July 1636 the assises for this county were held here (the plague then raging in the City of Oxford) and four persons 3 men and a Boy all of the name of Thomas were hanged for felony and burglary at Battle edge Hill in this parish : Mr William Taylor dissected one of them Thomas Sherwood, and the sceleton is still in the possession of his grandson Mr William Taylor chirurgeon of Burford.

In 1645 S^r W^m Waller demolished the Cross, which stood upon eight pillars, was the third for beauty in England, the vase stands now on a neighbours house near adjoining.

In 1649 the Levellers were routed at Burford by Olivers troops and three of them were taken and shot in the church-yard, viz. Col Thompson, and Perkins and Church two other officers.

Edm. Harman of Burford bought of Henry VIII the mannour and estate of Teynton formerly in the tenure in (sic) Teuxbury monastery, he also bought the Priory of Burford (where he built that part of the House which is in the form of an H) and Fyfield Merry-mouth. The estate of Teynton came by marriage to the Brayes of Barrington. Edmund Bray of Barrington is L^d of the mannor.

[M.S. Harl. 4170 fo. 36, June 9, 1660; see also Rawl. B. 400 b. fo. 21.]

In a chappell on the south side of the chancell, At the head of a raised Tombstone on a brass plate is this inscription under the proportion of a man in a gown kneeling, in capitals: Here lyeth the body of George Symmons / Gent. sometime dwelling in the house / near the bridgefoot, being a good bene / factour to the poor people of this towne / and departed this life the XXVII day of / January an. 1590. God be praised for him.

Near this is another raised monument without armes or inscription, not unlikely belonging to Pinnock.

Near the former on a brass plate is this: Hic jacet Johannes Pinnock primogenitus Thomae Pinnocke / gentleman, quondam societatis de Greis-Inne: qui quidem Johannes obiit / v die Augusti MCCCCLXXX cujus anime propicietur deus. Amen.

In a chappell on the north is a noble monument, which may be thus described: On the ground is the proportion of a sceleton in marble lying on its back, over it is a Table of black marble; On this Table, supported by small black marble Corinthian Pillars, is the proportion of a man lying on his back, in the formalities and habit of a Judge; with Collar of S.S.S. on, also the proportion of a woman in the same posture, all arched over, and the arch supported by six Corinthian Pillars of black marble and four white ones at the corners: at the head a young female child in a gown, kneeling with hands erected, at the feet a man in armour, behind or under him is this inscription on a Table of black marble at the west end.

Not this small heap of stones, and straiten'd roome,
The Bench, The Court, Tribunall and his tombe,
This but his dust, but these his name interre
And these indeed prove but a sepulcher,
Whose merits onlie raised him and made good
His standing there where few so long have stood.
Pitty his memory ingag'd should stand
Unto a private Church, not to the land.

On the south side this: Here lyeth interred Sr. Laurence Tanfield kt. sometime / one of the Justices of his majesties Bench and late Lord cheife Baron of the Exchequer, who continued those places of / judicature 20 yeares, wherein he survived all the / judges in every Bench at Westminster / He left behind onlie one daughter and heir who married with Henry Lord Viscount Falkland Lord deputy / generall of Ireland. He deceased 30 Apr. 1625. / His noble and vertuous lady to the memory of her most / honoured Husband hath erected this monument of his / virtues and her sorrowes.

The crests are in scrolls at the feet of the two large Images:

(1) A maid from the middle arg., crined or, bracelets sab., wreath of roses about her head gules.

(2) On a wreath arg. and sab., a swan proper. At the feet or east end a man kneeling with this under him.

Paucam des operam tibi viator;
 Non ignobile te rogat sepulchrum;
 Olim inter monumenta sanctiora et
 Nepoti critico labor futurus
 His nempe in spatiis situs quiescit
 Angli praecipuus fori togaeque
 Juris gloria, judiciumque fama
 Prudens causidicus, pius Senator
 Quo nemo luit innocens patrono,
 Quo nemo scelus improbe redemit
 Leni judice. factus haud minori
 Insons crimine quam fuit scelestus
 Qui nullo pretio malus, nec unquam
 Vectigal sibi fecerat tribunal
 Puris divitiis honore casto.
 Atque amplissimus unus innocenter
 Nec vitae minor artibus, domusque
 Attentissimus et probe severus
 Et rerum bene diligens suarum
 Parens providus optimus maritus
 Cunctis officiis nimis probatus
 Dicam nomen, et haec minora dixi
 Tanfieldus Baro: jam tibi scienti
 Narro cuncta superfluous, tibi ipse
 Absolves epitaphium viator.

On the north side are the following verses composed by the widdow of Baron Tanfield.

Here shadow lye / while life is sad / Still hopes to die / to him she had / In bliss is hee / whom I love best / Thrice happy shee / with him to rest / So shall I be / with him I loved / And he with me / and both us blessed / Love made me Poet / and this I writte / My harte did do yt / and not my wit.

About the sides of the top of the arch are severall scripture sentences. At the top over all the corners are the arms both eastward and westward viz. : Arg., a chevron between 3 martlets sab. (Tanfield) quartering, Arg. a chevron sab. between 3 Griffins heads erased gules (these should be wolves heads erased by the name of Lovell). The crest is the first of the former viz. : a maid to the middle &c. Tanfield impaling Bl., 3 trefoiles slipped or.

On an old raised monument of stone in this chappell was this in capitals at the feet : Obitus Thomae Frieri / Burfordiae / Epitaphius qui vita / excessit 5 Novemb. an. dom. 1572 Marmoris hac Thomas latitat sub mole Frierus / mente sagax felix vixit populoque Deoque fidelis / hunc coluit dives semper amavit inops.

On the north side :

Quatuor hic genuit divino munere natos
Ex quibus in tenebris jam puer unus obit
Omnia quae sternit tandem mors abstulit illum
Corpus in hoc tumulo est, mens sed in arce poli est.
Illius ad Christum penetravit spiritus alnum
In quo sola quies vitaeque sola manet.

This Tho. Frier was second Brother to Richard Frier of Blanketts near Worcester, and though no armes are on the tomb, yet he bears Sab., a chevron between 3 dolphins embowed arg.

In the north isle of the church are the figures of two persons on a fair tomb of marble defaced.

Against the north wall of the Church on a Table of Burford stone supported by two Corinthian Pillars is this inscription in capitals: Edmundus Harmannus Armiger, quem dom. Deus / innumeris beneficiis ab. ineunte aetate prosecutus est / hoc Christianae memoriae monumentum sibi et Agnetae / unicae et castissimae conjugii et sexdecem liberis Deo bene / dicente ex illa susceptis posuit A.D. 1569.

Nullus eram et faciente Deo sum natus ut essem
 Jam nunc de proprio semine rursus ero
 Inque die magna quae nunc absumpta putamus
 Corpora cernemus surgere tota Deo
 Pellite corde metum mea membra et credite vosmet
 Cum Christo reditura Deo nam vos gerit ille
 Et secum revocat morbos ridete minaces
 Inflictos casus contemnite et atra sepulchra
 Despicite exurgens quo Christus provocat ite
 Christus erit cunctis regnum lux vita corona

Armes over it are: Sab., 3 curricombes Arg. quartering
 (1) Parted per pale indent. on a bend between 2 fleurs de lis
 3 martlets. (2) A chevron ingr. between 3 owles. (3) A fess dauncett. between 6 crosses, Crest, the demi-arme of a man holding a pole-ax, all without colours.

This Edm. Harman was the son of Rob. Harman of Ipswich in Suffolk, by Joan Hewick of London his wife. This Edmund living at Teynton married Agnes daughter of . . .
 Sylvester of Burford Gent. by whom he had Agnes his eldest daughter, married to Edm. Bray of Great Barrington near Burford Esq. son and heir to Reginald Bray, brother to the Lord Edmund Bray of Eton in Bedfordshire. This Edmund had also another daughter married to William Johnson of Layton Bustard, Bedfordshire, Gent.

On the east wall of the lowermost South Ile within a Press is preserved a well-painted figure three quarters length of a person in an aldermans scarlet gown, in his right hand a walking cane, in his left a pair of fringed gold gloves, underneath on a small black marble tablet:—

The statue of that worthy benefactor John Harris late alderman and mayor of the city of Oxford and native of this place, He gave to the poore of the Towne of Burford 200£

CASSINGTON.

[Rawl. B. 400 f. fo. 37.]

D. of Marlborough bought this Mannor of [—] Arnold Esq. Patrons are Ch. Ch. Coll. Oxon who are Impropriators ; lease it out to Mr: Reynolds. The Vicar is Mr. Jonathan Colley M.A. of Ch. Ch. Wake here the Sunday after St. Peter's Day. Church large and handsom, a fine Spire. Six Bells.

[Rawl. B. 400 c. fo. 220.]

At the upper end of the body of the Church on an old blewish marble stone is a cross and inscription: Hic jacet Rogerus Cheyne / quondam armiger / domini Regis, cujus anime propitiatur deus. Amen.

Near it was an ancient monument of free stone about knee high, the inscription is gone and quite out of remembrance, the County people say that it was for one, or three Daughters, that were formerly coheireses of this Lordship. This monument was taken away by [—] Greenway, an Attorney and a tenant to S^r. Tho. Spencer for the parsonage House about 1678 and in its place was built a square deal seat. The said monument stood in about 1684 in the South Porch.

On a brass plate fastened on the wall (at the upper end of the body near the pulpitt) dividing the body from the steeple is engraven the pourtraiture of a man lying on his back in a winding sheet, under whom is this: Etiamsi occidit me in ipsum tamen sperabo, Job 13. Over it is this: Epitaphium Thomae Neli Professoris / olim Hebraici publici in / Academia Oxoniensi / Hic jacet elinguis, qui linguis pluribus olim / usus, Hebraismi publica lingua fuit / Graeca quid hic? quid Hebraea juvat? quid lingua latina? / Si qua alios juit nunc ea sola juvat / Vos ergo Thomae Neli quos lingua juvabat / Elinguem lingua (quaeso) juvate pia / subscriptio ipsius authoris. / Hos egomet versus posui mihi sanus ut essem / Hinc praevisa mihi mortis imago meae / Ao. dni. 1590 Aetatis meae 71.

In the chancell windows are these armes.

Gules, 3 Lyons pass. gard. or. England.

Arg., 3 fuzills in fess gules. Montague.

On the south east side of the Church is a house for the most part moated: it has a fair homestall and 6 yard land belonging to it: this house and land were owned for about two or three generations by the name of Coventry. The last of that name there sold it to Edmund Rainolds A.M. of Gloucester Hall, about the latter end of Queen Elizabeth. This Edmund died at Glouc. Hall 21 Nov. 1630 & was buried in Wolvercote Chancell, he then left to Matthew Cheriton, his nephew, a farm at Wolvercote joyning to the Churchyard; to Rich^d Rainolds eldest son of his younger Brother Nicholas a farm at Einsham, who having only female Heirs the name there is worn out; to William Rainolds 2nd. son of the said Nicholas he left the cheif farm in Cassington of 6 yard land mentioned before. Which William having had three wives, left the said farm to Christopher his only son by his 2nd. wife (for he had none by his first) who now enjoys it, and it is esteemed worth £100 per annum. The said William Rainolds who was bred in Gloucester Hall under his uncle Edmund, was a Roman Catholic and dying at Cassenton on Nov. 5 1661 was buried in the middle of the chancel there; some years after his widdow, a simple woman, putt a blew marble stone over his grave, whereon was engraved an inscription, but false in point of time viz: that he died 6 Nov. 1662.

Other Monumental Inscriptions:—

William Raynolde, died 6 Nov. 1662; Christopher Raynolds died 25 May 1697 in his 62nd. year.

Henry Newby, son of Chas. Newsby of Hooton Roberts, Yorks., died May 1716 in his 16th. year.

[Wood, B. 15. 24 May, 1652.]

In ye Chancell betwixt it and ye N. isle adjoining is an ancient monument of free stone erected, and thereon the portraiture of a lady laying, 2 Angells supporting here head ; it is quite out of remembrance there, all that I can guess is that perhaps it was for some of the Arsickes who were founders of ye priory there, and that she built ye aforesaid N. Isle for mass to be celebrated for her soule, makes me suppose because there is a chamber in ye parsonage house which is called by ye name of ye preists chamber. In ye said north Isle hath been divers Coates of Armes and painted windowes but they were most of them toren down in ye warr time.

In the east window of the Chancell are these armes:—

[Rawl. B. 400 c. fo. 225.]

In the Chancell, or between it and the north Isle adjoyning is an ancient monument of free stone erected, and thereon is the proportion of a Lady on her back, and two angels supporting her head. To whom this tomb belongs (having neither armes or Inscription thereon) I cannot learne, yet it may be noted that this mannor having for several generations belonged to the Greys of Rotherfield (particularly to John temp. Ed. 3 John his son, John his Grandson, and Bartholomew his great grandson) their wives had this, and other mannors settled upon them as Joyntures, and if I am not mistaken this north Isle was built by one of them, and perhaps the present fabrick of the Church. There was curious painting and several Coats of Armes here in these windows, but torn down, as I have been informed, in the late Rebellion.

3 coats in the North Isle, one of a stags head in a field arg. cabossed, and under it in a Saxon character The Lady Gray or Le dame de Grey. In another place the arms of Wainfleet Bp. of Winchester and another coat of Armes these words Willelmus Hamon monachus de Feschampe et Prior de Cogges in Saxon characters.

On the chancell on a small free stone gravestone: John Parkinson / of Witney and his wife / died both in one / night and were here / interred Oct. 20 / 1714 /

On the west wall of Blakes Ile: This Isle was new paved / and repaired at the charge / of William Blake Esq^u. / An. Do. 1677.

On a freestone tomb on the south side of the church yard in cap. : Richard White / of whose 6 sonnes and 2 daughters that / lived to a good old age, Henry in his 90th yeere / through a steady hope of the world to come / most peaceably gave up the ghost August the / 30 1659. On the south side of Cogges Church is ground called by the name of the Castle Yard, where frequently large and thick foundations have been dug up. The vulgar people, that live here, think that in old time here was a Castle but I have not read of any such thing. There is also a mead in this parish (as the inhabitants report) called Langdell Mead valued at 30^{li} per annum where any stranger of what condition soever, living in any part of the kingdom may putt his Horse therein, and none refuse him, it being free for all comers. Whether this mead did belong formerly to the Priorie here, I cannot tell, very possibly it did, perhaps it was a common for the horses of guests that came to the Priory. It was about 60 years since intended for the erection of a Free School, but nobody could shew any evidences or writings for it to convey it to that use and purpose. This Priory stood, where the Lord Downes house now is near to the Church, and the people here think that his Grandfather built the present House out of the ruins of the Priory House. Tho. E. of Downes ob. 1660. Dec. 28. sepult. apud Wroxton. There is a chamber in the parsonage or vicars House called the Preists Chamber.

CUTTESLOWE.

[Rawl. B. 400 c. fo. 261.]

Some little way from Kidlington is a fair lone house built about the beginning of K. Charles I by Sir John Lenthall Keeper of the Kings Bench Prison . . . this farm or hamlet was in St. Edwards parish [Oxford], but on the decay of that Church, most, if not all, that parish was annexed to the parochial Church of St. Frideswides, which is now Christ Church, and since the building of Christ Church most part of that which is S. Edwards parish is included within the limits of that place. Since the King's restauration this farm was lett by Lease by Mr: David Walter to one . . . Banister, accounted a Jew, or at least an Anti-Sabbatarian, who never going to Church, was often complained of to Sir William Moreton of Kidlington, kt., one of the Justices of the Kings Bench, who taking this matter under consideration, would have forced Banister to come to his Church, and so consequently have made Cudeslow in the parish of Kidlington, but Banister refused, urging Cudeslow was in no parish, this matter caused a great disturbance, but how ended I have not heard.

In the window of the parlour are the Lenthalls armes with quarterings.
